Hymn for Corpus Christi,

And for days of Exposition of the Most Holy Sacrament.

I.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us,
From Sorrow's strain
We'll all refrain
And sing, sing with joy.
Each wordly thought we now repel,
With blissful sounds our voices swell
Praising Him Who here doth dwell,
We'll sing, sing with joy.

II.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us,
To God above,
With hearts of love
We'll sing, sing with joy.
We Praise the Eucharistic Bread
—How blest those words that Christ hath said—
His very Flesh ! the Blood He shed !
We praise, praise with joy.

III.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us,
May His sweet name
Our souls inflame
To sing, sing with joy
From North to South, in every land
They join in one united band
To praise this WORK of God's right hand
And sing, sing with joy !

°—Matt. xxvi— 26-28

IV.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us,
OUR LAND so fair
Could it forbear
To sing hymns of joy ?
O Sons of this bright AUSTRAL CLIME,
Come, one and all—in hymns sublime,
We'll praise our Lord throughout all time,
And sing, sing with joy.

V.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us,
This work so great
We'll celebrate
In sweet hymns of joy
Thy WORK we praise, O dearest Lord !
The Father's Co-Eternal word—
And Mary's Son—be Thou adored
In sweet hymns of joy.

VI.

Oh ! come, come to-day and bless the Lord Who
made us
Our voice we'll raise
In hymns of praise,
And sing, sing with joy !
May young and old chant forth our song
May Angel choirs swell out the throng
May Heav'n's high vault the sounds prolong,
And ring, ring with joy !
