ROUSE THEE, WESTRALIA.

Rouse thee, Westralia! Awake
From thy "Satan's seat among the reeds;"
Cast thy broad shadow on the lake,
And strongly glide where Fortune leads!

CHORUS: Onward! onward, Westralia!

Let eaglets o'er their quarry stream, —
The vulture's brood may loar and stay, —
Then vaker from prophetic dream
Of offspring goodlier than they!

[CHORUS.]

Thy sturdy cygnets from thy side
With glancing feet scull fast and far;
They press their bosoms to the tide,
And stretch bold wings beyond the bar.

[CHORUS.]

Their swansons with the breezes float
And follow fast where Fortune leads;
Till by green holms and bays remote
Are found new nests among the reeds.

[CHORUS.]

Their song (for onset, not for dirge)
Shall flood the creeks of hunder ways,
And, with the music of the surge,
Swell the full chant of better days.

[CHORUS.]

Thy seas have pearls; from reef and mine
Flash jewels and the pride of gold;
But goodlier for these seas of thine,
Furnace in story yet untold.

[CHORUS.]

GOD AND THE ROSE thy watchword be;
Patient, yet strong to do and dare;
And thine assessors, leave and free,
Labour and Vigilance and Prayer!

CHORUS: Onward! onward, Westralia!
